Wellesley College.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR 1894-95.

It is proposed to publish the Wellesley College Calendar hereafter in the fall term, and not in the spring term, as heretofore. No Calendar will therefore be published in the spring term of the current year, but the Calendar of 1894-95 will contain the names of the graduates of 1893, and such other information as may be necessary to preserve a continuous history of the College work.

The present circular contains the entrance requirements for 1895, together with such additional information as may be needed before the issue of the next annual Calendar.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS.

For entrance requirements in 1894, see Calendar of 1892-93, pp. 14-18. Entrance requirements for 1895:-

Thursday, January 10, 1895.

I. English.—See Calendar of 1892-93; in place, however, of text-books therein recommended for the preparation in Rhetoric, the following should be substituted: A. S. Hill: Foundations of Rhetoric; J. F. Genung: Outlines of Rhetoric; Strang: Exercises.

- II. Geography.—Ancient Geography of Greece, Italy, and Asia Minor. The requirement in Physical Geography, and Modern Geography, will be withdrawn in 1895.
- III. History.—See Calendar of 1892–93, p. 16. English History may be substituted for Greek History by candidates not offering Greek.
- IV. Mathematics—In 1895, Arithmetic will not be named among the preliminary subjects. For requirements in Algebra and Geometry, see Calendar of 1892-93, p. 16.
- V. Languages.—1. Latin, see Calendar of 1892–93, p. 16; in place, however, of last paragraph on p. 16, read merely the following: Prosody is included in the requirements in Latin Grammar. In connection with the study of the rules of Prosody, such exercises in transposition of verses should be given as will make the rules familiar.
- 2. One of the following languages: (a) Greek; full requirement, see Calendar of 1892-93, p. 17; (b) French; maximum requirement, see Calendar of 1892-93, p. 17; (c) German; maximum requirement, see Calendar of 1892-93, p. 18.
- 3. One of the following languages:* (a) Greek; an amount equivalent to the first year of preparatory work;† (b) French; either, minimum requirement, see Calendar of 1892-93, p. 32, Course A; or, sight-reading; (c) German; either, minimum requirement, the equivalent of Course A, Calendar of 1892-93, p. 28, (see below); or, sight-reading.

The student intending to offer the minimum requirement in German should be prepared on the following course, or its equivalent: Deutsche Grammatik, by Wenckebach-Schrakamp, pp. 1–130 and 262–270. German Composition, by Ch. Harris, pp. 1–21. Reading: Deutsches Lesebuch, pp 1–125 and 188–219. Poetry committed to memory, pp. 220–224 in the Lesebuch. Speaking exercises: Deutscher Anschauungs-Unterricht, pp. 1–36; Idioms, pp. 315–319.

The student intending to offer sight-reading in French, should read at least three hundred pages of such French texts as are contained in Luquiens' French Prose of Popular Science.

The student intending to offer sight-reading in German, should read, with attention to the grammar, at least two hundred pages of such German texts as Andersen's Bilderbuch ohne Bilder, Fouqué's Undine, and Chamisso's Peter Schlemihl.

Students who offer sight-reading in French or German may be admitted to translation classes, but not, without additional preparation, to French B (Calendar 1892-93, p. 32), or German B (Calendar of 1892-93, p. 28).

The maximum preparation in either French or German should cover a period of at least two years, five recitations per week. The minimum preparation requires at least one year, five recitations per week.

VI. Science.—Any one of the four following sciences may be offered in place of language 3: (a) Physics. Gage's Elements of Physics; or, the Harvard requirements in Physics; or, the courses outlined in the Report of the Committee on Secondary School Studies, pp. 117-127. (b) Chemistry. Remsen's Introduction to the Study of Chemistry, Briefer Course; or, the course outlined in the Report of the Committee on Secondary School Studies, pp. 117-137. (c) Zoölogy. Colton's Practical Zoölogy, except those parts which involve the use of the compound microscope. The student must be able to recognize the animals, and to make the dissections described in that book. (d) Physical Geography. The text-books of Guyot and Maury, or the one published by Appleton & Co., omitting the chapters upon geological and astronomical topics. Each applicant must bring some satisfactory evidence of liaving received systematic instruction in the science.

[†] It must be distinctly understood that this preparation does not admit the student to any College course in Greek.

The preparation in these sciences should cover at least one year, five recitations per week. In all these science courses, except Physical Geography, note-books of laboratory work, certified by the teacher, are to be presented in addition to examination or certificate of examination upon the text.

Physiology.—Students desiring to take an entrance examination in Physiology may prepare themselves by the study of Martin's Human Body, Briefer Course. Students who pass this examination may substitute for the College Physiology a one-third course in any other subject.

N. B.—It must be clearly understood that in case of withdrawal during the year, the student has no claim upon the College for the return of any part of the money she has paid for tuition. Application for rooms in the College buildings should be made as early as possible. A fee of ten dollars must be sent in January to secure a room for a student intending to enter in the following September. This deposit will be credited on the first College bill; should the room be relinquished the money will be refunded on condition that the notice be received not later than one month before the opening of the College in September. See also Calendar of 1892–93, p. 70.

Correspondence.—Information in regard to entrance examinations and preparatory schools will be given by Mrs. Sarah Woodman Paul, Secretary of the College.

Applications for pecuniary aid should be addressed to the Secretary of the Students' Aid Society, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass. Addresses for other correspondence given in Calendar of 1892-93.
